Yes the swedish Battlefield 2 site BF2.se has had the opportunity to try out the upcoming 1.03 patch for Battlefield 2. Here's a little snippet from the article of what they think of the new Wake 2007 map:

Wake 2007

As soon as I jumped into the map the nostalgia smacked me right in the face. I can feel the warm feeling of all wars I played on it in 1942. This is the map that changed my way of thinking about 1942 and was one of my favourite map both in clan wars and that short public game between lessons in school, this is the map that made me the player I am today.

Wake have been resting for 64 years to once again be brought to life, this time with the power of today's new weapons. But Wake 2007 is the same as it was 1942 with the small difference that instead of the destroyer we got a small island as a spawn point for USA mounted with artillery. The ship is resting where it should with a lot of planes and helicopters just waiting to attack to shores of Wake.
